The Event:

Limited Seating: Order your tickets today! Seating is limited, so email your ticket request and phone number today to: stephens4mayor@gmail.com.

We will contact you to get your tickets to you and pick up your check. RSVP by July 26.

You can also mail your check and request to Stephens Campaign Committee at 2110 E. Cragmont, 65804, and we will mail your tickets to you. Whichever is easiest for you!!

Parking and Shuttle: The night of our event is also the First Friday Art Walk, so parking downtown will be at a premium. Arrangements have been made for you to park in the south lot of South Street Christian Church, 500 South Avenue, and take a Fisk shuttle to and from the event center.

The Candidate:

Bob Stephens was elected to Springfield City Council in April, 2009, and filled General Seat A. In April, 2011, he was honored by his colleagues on Council who elected him Mayor Pro Tem and, two months ago, he moved into his new position of Mayor upon the resignation of Jim O'Neal.

Bob's moderate and reasoned approach to dealing with City problems has gained both attention and praise from folks from all points on the political spectrum.

On the day Bob announced he would run for the Mayor's position, he was endorsed by then-Mayor Jim O'Neal, the Fire Fighters association, the Springfield Police Officers Association, and the Coalition for Building a Better Tomorrow. And the support keeps building. A big Thank You to everyone!!

The Performers:

Leah Hamilton Jenkins: Coming off recent performances as Carmen for the Springfield Regional Opera and in the Little Theater production of "Rent," Leah brings a lengthy list of vocal credits to this event. She also sings alto with "Octarium," an 8-person, a capella chorale group based in Kansas City. At "Hot Night, Cool Music," she'll be featuring your pop and jazz favorites.

Harry Beckett: has had a long career as an "eclectic" pianist-entertainer-accompanist, loving to perform in numerous musical genres, including classical, jazz, swing, country, pop, rock, gospel, musical theater and various international styles. He has performed with numerous celebrity artists throughout the United States and works locally as a Music Therapist.
